Freshplace is not a typical food pantry.

It offers those in need in Hartford's Upper Albany neighborhood fresh foods including fruits, vegetables, dairy and meat.

It allows patrons the dignity of choosing their own foods.

It offers nutrition education as well as cooking classes.

It offers convenient hours including weekends.

It offers intake and referral services for multiple forms of support.

It is a collaborative project between Chrysalis Center, the Junior League of Hartford, and Foodshare, our region's food bank.

It is part of a research project to compare outcomes for Freshplace patrons to those for patrons of traditional food pantries.

It is a resource, revitalizing Hartford's Upper Albany neighborhood and creating a center for community involvement.
